

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A cache storage device is provided between a client and a storage device so that an area to be accessed by the client can be locked or excluded in advance.